How does the RMWB compare to the rest of the province according to infection rate per 100,000 population?

Fort McMurray	1835.8
Rural RMWB	1133.5
Banff	847.5
Edmonton	408.0
Calgary	577.1
Grande Prairie	465.0
Lethbridge	449.1
Red Deer	811.1

Do your part, even after your vaccination:

- Wear a proper face mask whenever you are around people not in your immediate household.
- Stay 2m apart from anyone not in your household.
- Stay in your household cohort when out in public, including enjoying outdoor dining.
- Sanitize your hands often, wash for at least 20 seconds with soap.
- Isolate if you are a suspected close contact.
- Stay home if you feel ill.

Second Dose:

Results show the first dose is at least 80% effective in preventing severe illness. The second dose ensures you're protected for as long as possible. The timing for getting your second dose depends on your health status. Most Albertans are eligible for your second dose of:

- Pfizer or Moderna no later than 4 months after the first dose
- No later than 4 months and no earlier than 12 weeks after the first dose.

When to book:

- Bookings for second doses will begin when supply allows, after all Albertans 16 and over have been offered a first dose, likely in late June.
- Contact your pharmacy or AHS closer to your eligibility date to book your next appointment. Do not try booking in advance.

Variants of Concern

Variants are viruses that have changed or mutated while reproducing inside an infected person's cells. Variants can spread to others and may continue mutating as they move from person to person. It is normal for viruses to mutate over time.

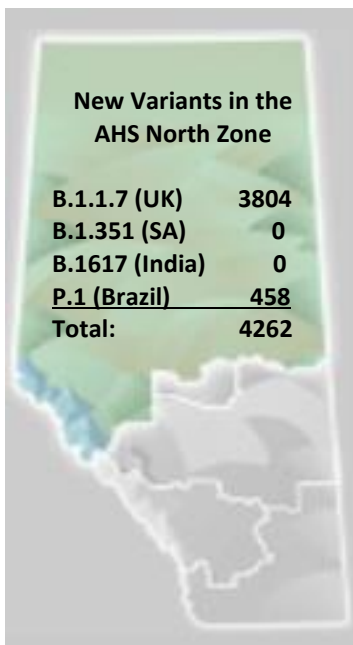

Variants of concern can spread more easily. They can also cause more serious illness that could result in more hospitalizations and deaths as they become common in the community. COVID-19 variants of concern were first identified in the United Kingdom, South Africa and Brazil.

These strains have since been detected in Alberta and in countries around the world. Alberta is monitoring for variants spreading in our province. Confirmed cases are updated daily.
